THE WAYNE INDEPENDENT, Thursday, April 1, 1982, p. 1

These young people couldn't resist "sampling" some of the sweet, clear maple sap that was being collected on the Ralph Curtis Farm, Sterling. In the background is a portion of the estimated 35 cords of wood needed to make between 750 and 1,000 gallons of maple syrup each year. The Curtis Farm was one of three stops on recent Wayne County Maple Tour.
